

WINNING WOMEN

WE RUN DOWN THE TOP 20 FEMALE PORTFOLIO MANAGERS IN THE US

ALEX STEGER

According to Citywire's 2020 Alpha Female report, just 2% of all funds in the US are run solely by a woman or a team of women. Mixed-gender teams run 19% of funds, while the remaining 79% are run by men.

In total, just 9% of all mutual fund managers in the US are women, a figure that has not increased over the years, despite greater awareness of the issue and pledges from firms to do better.

The lack of female representation in asset management is not down to a lack of talent, however. In an effort to highlight the best female fund managers in the US, we have put together a list of the 20 women with the most impressive risk-adjusted returns over the past three years to the end of April. To make the cut, they must also have posted top-quartile absolute returns in their category over that period.

The women who make the list come from large shops such as JP Morgan Asset Management and Fidelity Investment, as well as boutiques like Paradigm Capital Management and Grandeur Peak Global Advisors.

This is the fourth time we have conducted this piece of research, having first run the numbers at the end of 2016 and then again in 2018 and 2019.

EQUITY EXCELLENCE

The 2021 edition differs from the previous iterations in that it is dominated by equity managers, with just one pure fixed income manager – Elaine Kan of Loomis Sayles – making the cut.

Growth-focused equity managers make up a high proportion of the list

– 15 out of 37 funds run by the 20 managers are in a growth category – which is no surprise given the run for this style of investing over the last three years, at least until the last few months.

Small- and mid-cap managers are well represented too, with eight of the 20 managers on the list running funds in these categories. This too is unsurprising given that they are areas that remain hunting grounds for active managers, with outperformance rates that are much higher than large-cap categories.

Only one manager has appeared on all four versions of this list: Alger's Amy Zhang, who runs four funds, including her largest, the $7.3bn Alger Small Cap Focus fund, a concentrated portfolio of 50 companies.

Concentrated growth investing has rewarded other investors on the list, including this year's number one manager, Paulina Sliwiska, who runs the $120.7m Baillie Gifford International Concentrated Growth Equities fund, alongside Lawrence Burns and James Anderson, who will retire next year. The fund has half the number of holdings of Zhang's strategy, with just 25 stocks. Sliwinska is one of one of two managers from Edinburgh, Scotland-based growth shop Baillie Gifford to make the list. The other is Kirsty Gibson, who runs the $133m Baillie Gifford US Equity Growth fund, alongside Tom Slater and Gary Robinson.

Gibson has posted the second-best cumulative total returns over the three years through April (197.8%), behind only the ubiquitous Cathie Wood, who is listed here for her run on the $968.5m American Beacon ARK Transformational Innovation fund rather than her better-known ARK Innovation ETF as the data only covers mutual funds.

Although less popular – and more expensive – than the ETF, the American Beacon fund follows a similar strategy and has many of the same holdings and weightings.

Wood's huge success over the past year – in 2020, five out of six of her ETFs posted returns of more than 100%, garnering combined flows of $20.6bn – has made her the closest thing to a household name in asset management. Our list shows that there are plenty of other female fund managers deserving of the same recognition. ■

Loomis Sayles Inflation Protected Securities Fund: Fixed income securities may carry one or more of the following risks: credit, interest rate (as interest rates rise bond prices usually fall), inflation and liquidity. Below investment grade fixed income securities may be subject to greater risks (including the risk of default) than other fixed income securities. Inflation protected securities move with the rate of inflation and carry the risk that in deflationary conditions (when inflation is negative) the value of the bond may decrease. Derivatives involve risk of loss and may entail additional risks. Because derivatives depend on the performance of an underlying asset, they can be highly volatile and are subject to market and credit risks. Foreign securities may involve heightened risk due to currency fluctuations. Additionally, they may be subject to greater political, economic, environmental, credit and information risks. Foreign securities may be subject to higher volatility than US securities due to varying degrees of regulation and limited liquidity. Currency exchange rates between the US dollar and foreign currencies may cause the value of the fund's investments to decline. Commodity-related investments, including derivatives, may be affected by a number of factors including commodity prices, world events, import controls and economic conditions, and therefore may involve substantial risk of loss.
