

GREGORY A. HADJIAN, CFA

Gregory Hadjian is a global macro strategist covering Latin America for the macro strategies group at Loomis, Sayles & Company. During his career at Loomis Sayles, he has also served as the lead sovereign analyst for the Middle East and Africa regions. Greg joined Loomis Sayles in 2015 and has 12 years of investment industry experience. Previously, he worked at the International Monetary Fund, where he was a macroeconomic researcher and policy analyst in the Middle East and Central Asia Department. Prior to the IMF, Greg was an analyst at the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, focusing on monetary policy operations and payment systems. Greg earned a BA in history from Cornell University and an MA with honors in international economics from Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS).