

PETER C. YANULIS

Peter Yanulis is a co-portfolio manager for the emerging market debt blended total return strategy and an associate portfolio manager for the world credit asset strategy at Loomis, Sayles & Company. In addition, he is also a multi-asset credit strategist for the alpha strategies group, focusing primarily on global emerging markets, portfolio construction and risk premia. Peter joined Loomis Sayles in 2015 as a research analyst covering emerging market sovereigns, and has 17 years of investment industry experience. He was previously at JP Morgan in a number of roles, but most recently as a vice president on the emerging markets trading desk. Prior to this, Peter was an analyst in the asset management graduate training program and, before that, an analyst in G-10 interest rate derivatives trading. He began his career as an analyst in FX options trading at State Street Global Markets. Peter earned a BA in economics from Boston University and an MA with honors in international economic policy and management from Columbia University.
